

From: Brian Swope <brian@tierraseca.com>
Sent: Thursday, March 22, 2012 1:05 AM
To: RegComments@fhfa.gov.
Subject: Comment regarding RIN 2590-AA53

Hello,

I believe that the Federal Housing Finance Agency should not oppose the PACE programs which are necessary tools for the furthering of sustainable energy generation. Distributed generation creates energy at a much lower cost than subsidizing large power plants and their necessary transmission lines. Placing the source of energy generation nearer to its point of use is so much more efficient.

We do not need to destroy our natural resources and much-needed open space to generate electricity. Distributed generation is much more cost-effective and will allow us to have clean energy without causing widespread environmental destruction to achieve it.

Please save the deserts.

Thank you.
Brian M. Swope, M.D.

-- Tierra Seca Landscape Design
www.tierraseca.com
415.947.0228