2023 Targeted Community Lending Plan

I. Introduction

The Federal Home Loan Bank Dallas is a cooperatively owned wholesale financial institution dedicated to serving its member financial institutions and supporting affordable housing and economic growth. The 2023 Targeted Community Lending Plan identifies significant housing and economic development needs and investment opportunities within the communities our members serve. The Bank operates several housing and community investment programs that provide funding our members and their development partners can use to invest in communities, support affordable housing production, assist first-time homebuyers, and finance small businesses, creating longer-term economic and community benefits.

Pursuant to the requirements of 12 CFR 1290.6(a)(5), a Bank's annual Targeted Community Lending Plan adopted under its community support program shall, among other things, identify the significant affordable housing needs in its district that will be addressed through its AHP, as well as any specific affordable housing needs it plans to address through any Targeted Funds as set forth in its AHP Implementation Plan. The Bank is not offering an AHP Targeted Fund in 2023.

II. Market Study and Needs Analysis

The Bank engaged the National Low-Income Housing Coalition (NLIHC) to conduct the 2020 Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment for the Ninth District. The Bank's 2020 Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment combines quantitative analysis with a survey of members and community partners to create a comprehensive picture of housing and economic conditions across the District and provide critical feedback regarding FHLB Dallas programs. The goal of the assessment is to facilitate evidence-based decision-making for FHLB Dallas' community investments through 2023.

The quantitative data for the Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment are largely drawn from the 2015 and 2018 American Community Survey (ACS), the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), and state and local resources throughout the District. In partnership with the Bank, the NLIHC surveyed the Bank's members and community partners to better understand the barriers to homeownership, affordable rental housing, and economic development. The survey supplements the quantitative assessment of housing and economic development needs with invaluable local perspectives. Given that the Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment was completed during the initial months of the pandemic, aspects of the report that reference federal legislation passed during that time are no longer fully applicable. It was always the Bank's plan to update the Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment for 2024.

In addition, the Bank will continue to meet with its Advisory Council, community groups, small business development organizations, state housing agencies and Bank members on a regular basis to discuss District needs. In addition, the Bank continues to enhance its marketing and educational activities for both housing and economic development initiatives.

III. Market Research Analysis Results

Unmet or underutilized opportunities identified by the National Low Income Housing Coalition in the 2020 Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment for the Ninth District, include:

Housing

- Provide deeply affordable rental housing. There is a basic need for rental housing affordable to extremely low-income and very low-income renters in every District state.
- Keep people housed. The states have an immediate need for interventions that promote housing stability during the pandemic and subsequent economic recovery. For homeowners, this might be in the form of financial assistance, mortgage counseling, or assistance with critical repairs if resources are limited. Renters will need emergency rental assistance.
- Expand the supply of permanent supportive housing (PSH). Homelessness is on the rise in much of the District. Congregate shelters are struggling to meet demand for temporary emergency shelter and practice social distancing during the pandemic. The pandemic makes it clear that access to permanent housing is fundamental to the health of entire communities.
- Promote sustainable homeownership opportunities. Facilitating homeownership opportunities is still an important goal. In some communities, and given the right household circumstances and support, homeownership can be a more attractive option than renting for low- to moderate-income households. Homeownership, under the right conditions, can also play a role in narrowing the racial wealth gap.
- Promote accessible housing. The District is home to an aging population and a relatively high share of people with disabilities. Supporting home modifications for older homeowners and those with disabilities, as well as universal design in rental housing will promote independent living for these populations and prevent institutionalization.
- Make communities more resilient to disasters. There is a longer-term, but urgent need to promote resilience to future disasters. Many renters and homeowners still have not recovered from recent disasters like Hurricane Ida. These households still need assistance to recover and mitigate against future disasters. At the same time, expanding the supply of deed-restricted affordable housing and community land trusts makes communities more resilient to economic displacement from disasters.

Economic Development

- Stabilize small businesses. Small businesses found it much more difficult to cope with the economic disruption of the pandemic than larger firms. While the federal government provided some level of support through the CARES Act, funding through this legislation has expired.

- Support vulnerable workers. Assistance to small businesses can help workers. However, those who are laid-off or furloughed will need assistance through unemployment. The federal unemployment supplement is set to expire in summer 2020, significantly reducing support for unemployed workers provided by unemployment insurance. There will likely to a need to continue supplementing what are normally meager unemployment benefits. Unemployed workers can also benefit from retraining. (Note: This aspect of the economy has changed significantly since the Assessment was conducted in 2020. Despite current low levels of unemployment in much of the district, the need for a skilled workforce achieved through retaining still exists.)
- Support substantive workforce development. Workforce development efforts should focus on education for living-wage occupations such as nursing, trucking, and management that are expected to grow in the District. These efforts could take the form of supporting vocational training or college programs that place graduates in jobs. Having an educated workforce also makes communities more attractive to investment from outside firms without sacrificing future tax revenue for incentives.
- Improve access to mainstream financial services. Many people in the District are unbanked or underbanked because they lack physical access to mainstream financial services or have a history of poor financial standing. Access to online banking services may help resolve issues with physical access, while credit unions have an important role to play in engaging people underserved by traditional financial institutions.

6. Small Business Boost (SBB) is intended to fill the gap between what the member can approve and the loan requested by an eligible small business. The Banks' AHP General Fund is more fully described in the Bank's AHP Implementation Plan which can be found at fhlb.com/community-programs.

VIII. Native American and Tribal Communities in the Dallas District

The Bank has begun the process to identify and assess the affordable housing and community economic development needs of Native Americans and tribal communities in the district. The Dallas district contains 30 Federally recognized tribes, with a total population of over 262,000 people. The highest concentration of federally recognized native tribes are in New Mexico with 23, while there are also 3 tribes in Texas, 3 in Louisiana and 1 in Mississippi. The Bank has also determined that there are 21 Tribally Designated Housing Entities & Housing Authorities in the district along with 7 Native Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs) based in the district. Of those Native CDFIs, 4 are based in New Mexico, 2 are in Texas and one is in Mississippi. 1 of the Native CDFI's in Texas is currently a member of the Bank.

The Bank has demonstrated a track record of serving tribal housing needs via the AHP. Since the inception of the AHP, the Bank has awarded 28 AHP subsidies supporting tribal housing with 12 tribal communities, on and off reservation trust land totaling $4,889,224. Thus far, the Bank has funded $2,628,209 in AHP subsidy to support 329 units of affordable housing, with two awards to Tribal entities that are currently building their projects as of the fourth quarter of 2022.

Although there is regular use of the Dallas AHP General Fund by tribal housing entities in the district, the Bank has determined that given the average median income of a tribal household of $39,873 and discussions with our partners in the district, the Bank is committed to enhancing our relationships with tribal housing entities and other funders in the district in 2023 as noted in the Initiatives listed in Section XI of the plan below.

Lists of the Native CDFIs, Native Housing Entities and an overview of the AHP Awards for Tribal housing, may be found in the exhibits to the Targeted Community Lending Plan.

XII. Conclusion

These goals and initiatives coupled with the programs described here-in help the Bank provide resources to our financial institution members to meet the needs in their communities as well as address those needs identified in the 2020 District Needs Assessment Report. With regards to the focal points of the Community Lending Plan Goals: Lending, Member Engagement, and Outreach & Education, the following describes how our Community Investment products and advances address the identified needs in the Bank's district:

Lending: The advance programs along with the Bank's Small Business Boost program provide members low-cost financial options to support small businesses and economic development throughout the Bank's district. The programs address the identified Economic Development needs of Stabilizing Small Business, Support for vulnerable workers and Support workforce development by providing members with multiple options to fund small business lending.

Member Engagement: Having a wide variety of members enrolled in and utilizing the Bank's Community Investment programs, increases the opportunity to more broadly address the range of needs identified in the Bank's District Needs Assessment. Continuing to engage our membership with the HELP program promotes sustainable homeownership by supporting lending to first time homebuyers, while member engagement in SNAP helps address the identified needs to keep people housed and support accessible housing.

Outreach and Education: Education and outreach to our members and their community members is important to the success of our programs in addressing the needs in the Bank's district. With regard to disaster resiliency, our ability to effectively communicate and deliver assistance to our members on a timely basis is critical whether through the DRA or DRP programs or a more tailored approach to each event such as the Special Partnership Grant Program in response to COVID-19 or the Hurricane Recovery Grant program that assisted member employees that were harmed by hurricanes Laura and Delta in 2020 and hurricane Ida in 2021. The Bank also supports the financial education of low- to moderate-income people by not only supporting non-profit organizations that provide this training through the Partnership Grant Program, but also by providing funds to support homebuyer education via the HELP program. Financial education is an important part of improving access to traditional financial services for low- to moderate-income people.

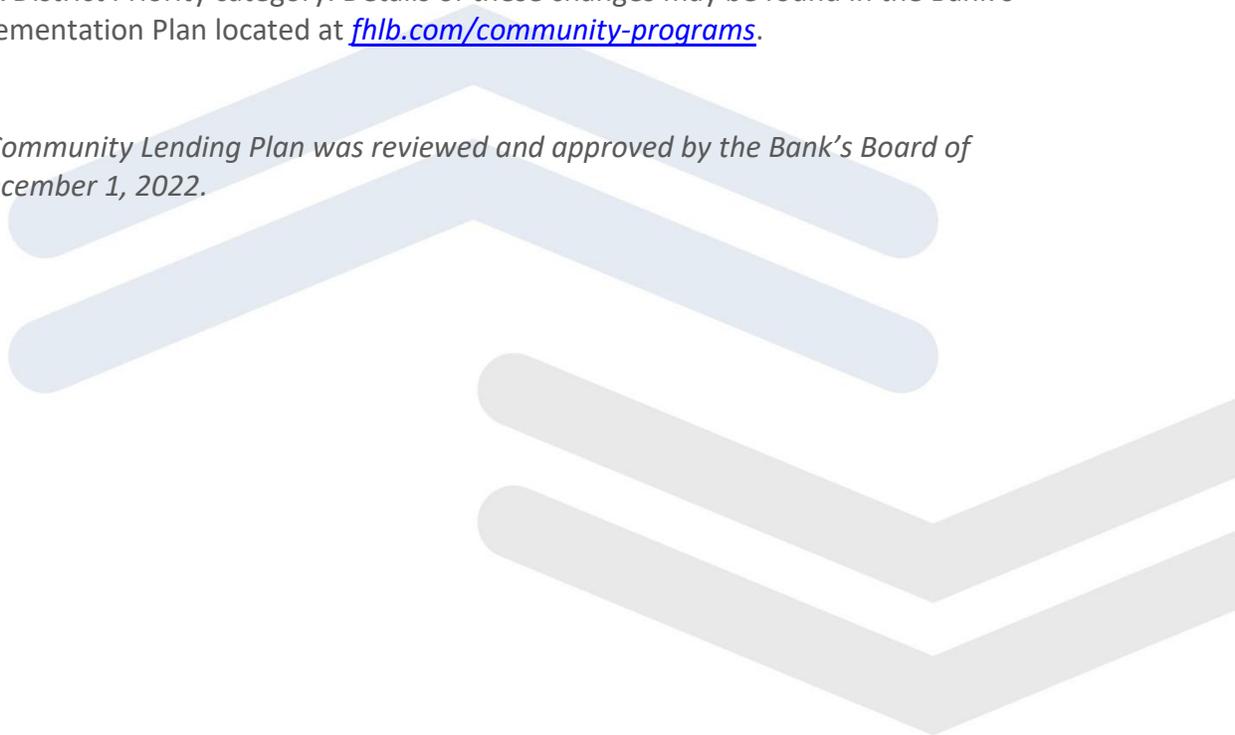

There is a longer-term, but urgent need to promote resilience to future disasters. To help facilitate this, the Bank will add a new scoring element to the AHP General Fund for 2023. Within the Bank's District Priority, the Bank will add points for Resilient Housing, with points for qualified housing projects built to the Insurance Institute for Business and Home Safety (IBHS) FORTIFIED building standard. FORTIFIED is a certification designed to minimize damage from a Category 3 hurricane such as those from Hurricane Ida that struck Louisiana in 2021. This standard includes a highly engineered roof system and a continuous load path which ties the structure of the house together and redistributes extreme wind to the foundation of the building. Les Maisons de Bayou Lafourche is an affordable rental housing project located in Lockport Louisiana that was struck by Hurricane Ida. This property, which received the first FORTIFIED Multifamily™ designation ever issued by the IBHS, was funded in part by an FHLB Dallas AHP subsidy. In seeing the successes of Les Maisons de Bayou Lafourche with handling the winds of Hurricane Ida, the Bank determined through additional research that incenting and supporting the implementation of the FORTIFIED standard with the AHP General Fund scoring was an important step in promoting resiliency in the face of future natural disasters that may impact the Dallas district. In addition, the Bank is developing a voluntary program to support the construction and retrofitting of owner-occupied homes as certified FORTIFIED. The Bank expects this program to launch in 2023. We believe that building stronger affordable housing structures via FORTIFIED will help those who can least afford to lose their homes to quickly return to their homes after a natural disaster.

In the spirit of the Federal Housing Finance Strategic Plan, the Bank is committed to helping ensure that the AHP General Fund provides subsidy to all five states in the Dallas district. As such, in 2023, the Bank will provide additional scoring for AHP General fund applicants with projects located in the states of New Mexico and Arkansas. Over the last five years NM has averaged only 1 project award annually, with no award made in 2018. While Arkansas has averaged about 2 awards per year, the number of applications for AHP subsidy has been declining over the last several years. A chart with this AHP award data is provided as an exhibit to this plan.

As the cost of energy has risen, the Bank is taking steps to also incent the construction of energy efficient and green building by recognizing a number of key green building and energy efficiency designations in the 2023 AHP General Fund scoring. This type of construction not only helps save residents money on utility costs, but may also have positive environmental impacts. These designations are utilized by at least one of the five state housing agency Qualified Action Plans (QAPs) in the district so that affordable housing developers throughout the district can better coordinate their AHP General Fund application with the priorities of their state HFA.

Lastly, the Bank will address the needs for deeply affordable rental housing and specifically permanent supportive housing via the AHP General Fund. The Bank in consultation with its Affordable Housing Advisory Council has established aspects of the 2023 AHP General Fund scoring to further support both needs. First, the Implementation Plan provides points in the Bank District Priority section for rental housing projects. To address the need for permanent supportive housing in the district, the Bank chose to continue a scoring category for homeless housing for 2023. The Bank also recognizes that the cost of developing affordable rental housing, including permanent supportive housing, is increasing. As such, the Bank has also maintained the higher the AHP subsidy per unit for rental projects to achieve the highest score within the Bank District Priority category. Details of these changes may be found in the Bank's 2023 AHP Implementation Plan located at fhlb.com/community-programs.

This Targeted Community Lending Plan was reviewed and approved by the Bank's Board of Directors on December 1, 2022.
