Sometimes life brings unexpected events that cause financial hardship. If you've been struggling to pay your mortgage, or anticipate that there may be financial trouble soon, we can help. We can explore foreclosure avoidance solutions that may help you keep your home, including a modification under the federal Home Affordable Modification program. If keeping your home is not the best option, we'll assess alternatives to foreclosure that can allow you to give up your home without going through the foreclosure process. Ultimately, we want to help you and your family find a solution that stabilizes your current housing and financial situation.
